Charles-Town, July 1, 1771.

CHARLES-TOWN, JULY 4.

BY a Gentleman juſt arrived from Virginia, we are informed, that a moſt terrible Inundation happened in that Colony in May laſt, about the Time that the Freſhes were ſo high, and ſo much Damage was done in this Province, as was mentioned in this Paper of the 6th paſt. That it came over the Mountains, in a Torrent of ſo great an Extent in Width and Height, that it was ſuppoſed ſome great Lake had either burſt its Barrier, or been emptied by ſubterraneous Convulſions; and with ſuch Impetuoſity, that nothing in its Way could reſiſt its Force, but was borne down before it (Men, Beaſts, Buildings, Trees, &c. &c.) in one promiſcuous general Ruin, leaving many Places covered with a Bed of fine white Sand. That this Torrent at laſt ſpent itſelf in the Head of James River, where it alſo deſtroyed Men, Beaſts, and Settlements, and drove ſome Veſſels high up into the Fields. That many Houſes were removed by it from ſome Plantations, and left ſtanding upon others at a great Diſtance. That ſome People attempting to ſave themſelves in their Carriages, were found dead in them, with the Horſes in the Harneſſes. That the Number of Carcaſes of all ſorts, was ſo great in ſome Places, that an Infection was dreaded. And that upwards of 5000 Hogſheads of Tobacco in Ware-houſes, &c. on James-River, were computed to be totally loſt, beſides Proviſions, &c.

According to what we mentioned in this paper of the 13th paſt, the civil war in North-Carolina ſeems to be at an end.—Our laſt advices from thence are dated laſt week. They inform us, that the deluded Inſurgents had, in general, become ſenſible of their error, and ſubmitted to government, altho' they were highly diſſatisfied at the manner in which Mr. Few was executed—that twelve of thoſe who were taken in the battle of Alamance, had been capitally convicted, at the court of over and terminer lately held at Hillſborough; ſix of whom were hanged, and the other ſix pardoned—that His Excellency Governor Tryon was about to diſband all the troops in the government's ſervice, except General Waddel's detachment, and would immediately after proceed to Newbern, to embark for his new government of New-York—that in the late battle, above a third of the Inſurgents had no other weapons than clubs, and the reſt (in general) were ill provided with fire arms—that Hermon Huſbands (who is called the Catiline of that country) having collected a large ſum of money from his adherents, on pretence of going to Britain to lay the grievances of the people before the crown, was by ſome thought to be actually gone for England, while others rather believe that he has gull'd the people of their money—and that James Hunter, Rednap Howell, and James Butler, three other principals of the Inſurgents, had alſo eſcaped, and are ſuppoſed to have fled either towards Canada or Weſt-Florida.

Laſt Thurſday a number of officers, &c. of the 16th regiment, on the recruiting ſervice, arrived here from Penſacola; as did Mr. Francis Guerin.—The party of the 21ſt, on the ſame ſervice, that arrived here ſome time ago from St. Auguſtine, have had great ſucceſs.

On Sunday laſt his majeſty's ſhip Gibraltar, commanded by ſir Thomas Rich, ſailed on a cruize.

The ſame day ſailed for London, the ſhips Heart of Oak, Capt. Gunn, and Britannia, Capt. Ball; in which went paſſengers, Collin Campbell, Eſq; and Mrs. Campbell, Mr. John Hodſden, Mr. Paul Mazyck, Capt. Home of the 21ſt regiment, Mr. William Stukes, Maſter Petrie, Maſter Roſe, and others.

On the evening of the ſame day, Doct. Benjamin Willply, of Aſhepoo, was married, to Miſs Sarah Magaw of this town.

Laſt week died, much regretted, Mrs. Elizabeth Bull, the amiable conſort of Stephen Bull, Eſq; of Sheldon.

Price of Rice, from 60 to 55 s. per Ct. wt.

SQUIB's Letter has been received: But as we never aſſumed a power to confer or take away the title of Eſquire, at pleaſure, &c. we would recommend to the writer, to lay it before the public thro' ſome more proper channel.

WILLIAMSBURG (in VIRGINIA) JUNE 1.

THE expreſs which we ſent to Richmond on thurſday, in order to obtain the fulleſt account, that could then be got, of the damage ſuſtained by the late great freſh, is but this moment returned, by whom we have the following particulars.

Richmond Town, May 31, 1771.

THE terrible devaſtation cauſed by the freſh is ſcarcely to be conceived but by the diſtreſſed ſufferers. From as far up the river as we have received accounts, there are neither fences nor houſes left on the low grounds, except what might lodge in coming down from other places. Many people have ſuffered greatly by the loſs of wheat, and in a great degree, their ſtock, as alſo ſome negroes; and the ruinous appearance of making tobacco, occaſioned by this terrible diſaſter, affords a melancholy proſpect, more eſpecially as all the corn, which numbers of poor families entirely depended upon for ſubſiſtence is carried down the ſtream. All the tobacco at Shocko inſpection is damaged, and it is imagined there were not leſs than 1600 hogſheads at it. At Byrd's, near all the ground tier is damaged, ſuppoſed 600 hogſheads. Three fine large granaries, lately built, belonging to Mr. Campbell, Mr. Buchanan, and Mr. M'Dowell, are carried away, with ſundry valuable goods in them; two are totally loſt, and Mr. Campbell's lodged in a part of the town. Many goods are damaged that were depoſited in the public and other warehouſes. The merchants at Rocky Ridge had likewiſe their warehouſes near the river carried away, and 300 and odd hogſheads of tobacco damaged. The merchants at Warwick have ſuffered conſiderably in their property. Indeed we are conſtantly hearing of diſmal accounts concerning it. Several people's low grounds are much waſhed away, and others ſanded. It is judged that the water was at leaſt 30 feet perpendicular higher than the Auguſt freſh in 1720 or 24, or any other ever known by the oldeſt man about us, and 35 or 40 feet higher than a common tide. The damage ſuſtained here and at Rocky Ridge, including tobacco, is computed to be near 40,000 l. In ſhort, the loſs of tobacco here, Weſtham, Rocky Ridge, and at other landings higher up the river, is eſtimated at 3000 hogſheads, or more. Houſes, warehouſes, wine, tobacco, rafts of trees and timber, are conſtantly ſeen floating down the river. The ſhores are covered with dead carcaſes. Capt. Conkie loſt 3 anchors. Capt. Clarke's yawl was overſet, and 5 men were drowned. Several of the ſhips at Shirley Hundred and City-Point, are gone aſhore, and it is feared cannot be got off.

PROVIDENCE (in Rhode-Iſland) JUNE 1.

From ſeveral parts of the country we learn, that conſiderable damage has been to the graſs, &c. by a deſtructive ſpecies of worms, againſt the ravages of which the induſtrious huſbandman cannot ſecure his lands.

WILLIAMSBURG, JUNE 6.

From Richmond we learn, that they receive daily accounts of the devaſtation occaſioned by the late floods. From the mountains, to the falls, the low grounds have been ſwept of almoſt every thing valuable; and the ſoil is ſo much injured that it is thought not to be of half its former value, and a great part is entirely ruined. One inſtance may ſuffice: a tract of land where the river forks, which before the freſh was judged to be richly worth 10,000 l. is not now rated at ſo many hundreds. Fourteen negroes belonging to that eſtate were drowned, and only 1 houſe left out of 40, which were 60 by 40 feet. Off Elk iſland between 6 and 700 head of cattle, hogs, horſes and ſheep, have been loſt, and near 100 houſes; beſides grain, tobacco, &c. At Farrar's iſland, which the higheſt freſh never before affected, above 80 acres of fine land are rendered for ever incapable of cultivation, the ſoil being gone, and inſtead of it 10 or 12 feet deep of ſand, upon which is a layer of ſtones, as if paved. Many other iſlands have been torn to pieces, hills of ſand thrown up, channels ſtopt and their courſes altered, and, in ſhort, the face of nature almoſt changed. Old Joe, an honeſt and well-known negro at the falls of James river, who is intimately acquainted with the remains of an Indian nation that has reſided there for ages, ſays, that he was ſhewn by their old men the marks of the greateſt freſh handed down to them by tradition; that, upon his carefully meaſuring, it wanted near 15 feet of the late dreadful one. A ſhip at Warwick ſounded from the beginning of the perceivable increaſe of the river, and found that freſh, at its height, was upwards of 40 feet higher than the common tides. The leſſened value of lands, loſs of ſtocks, houſes, tobacco, wheat, and corn in houſes, with fencing, and the trees on the ground, baffle all deſcription. Byrd's, Shocko, Richmond, Rocky Ridge, and Warwick, have ſuffered amazingly, in the loſs of merchandize, tobacco, beſides houſes, &c. Seven ſcore and 6600 hogſheads of tobacco are gone from theſe places. The diſtreſſes of the people in Albemarle, and thoſe parts of the country in the reach of the freſh, is not to be described; moſt of them being left without bread to eat, or dwellings, and their ſtocks gone. The trading part of the country likewiſe ſuffered exceſſively, in European and other goods, as well imports as exports. The loſſes, and very great diſtreſs of the numerous ſufferers, call loudly for the interpoſition and aſſiſtance of the legiſlature; which no doubt that reſpectable body will take into as early conſideration as may be, and grant the immediate and effectual relief which is ſo much wanted. In ſome places, trees, carcaſes, &c. are matted together, from 12 to 60 feet in height; and, from the horrid ſtench, there is no coming near enough to ſeparate them. Happily, if, at this ſeaſon, we eſcape ſome contagious diſorder. Miles in length of trees and logs came driving down the river, and nothing could withſtand their force. The logs were almoſt up to the bowſprits of many veſſels; ſo that their anchors could not avail them, and were chiefly loſt. There were no rains to ſpeak of at Richmond and thereabout, ſo that they muſt have fallen from the mountains to above 30 or 40 miles above the Falls. From the firſt perceivable riſe of the river at that place was about 60 hours, and the water ſometimes roſe at the rapid rate of 16 inches an hour. Daily accounts are received of the loſs of whole families; and houſes came floating down, with people on them calling for help, though none could be afforded. Accounts are already received of 50 odd people being drowned.

Appamatox has been little or nothing affected, which proves that the rain (if any) muſt have fallen high up the country.

The devaſtation on Roanoke is, if poſſible, ſtill greater, in the ruin of valuable lands, loſs of negroes, ſtocks, houſes, &c.

On Pamunkey river, the low grounds are chiefly laid under water, the crops and meadows deſtroyed, and the fencing gone. Many houſes and mills are carried away, and a deal of grain and other commodities ſpoiled.

A letter from Fredericksburg ſays, that ſeveral houſes and mills have been ſwept away from that place and Falmouth; that the higheſt freſh in Rappahannock never came up to the floors of the warehouſes, but that this roſe as high as the joiſts, whereby a large quantity of tobacco was floated out, 900 hogſheads from Falmouth, or the lower warehouſes, and 300 from Dixon's, the upper inſpection. Much ſalt, and other goods loſt; ſeveral veſſels driven from their anchors; a deal of valuable lands waſhed away; incredible quantities of trees and fencing come down the river; only one life loſt, that had been then come to the knowledge of.

We have no accounts from Patowmack; but from its communication with the rivers at the mountains, there is no probability of their having eſcaped this almoſt general calamity.

Upon the whole, it is believed that hiſtory ſcarce affords an inſtance of equal damage being done to any country, if the deſtruction of lands, loſs of property, &c. be included.

A waggiſh blade at Richmond, we are told, ſaid it was his opinion Old Nick had bored a hole thro' the mountains, and let in the South Sea upon them.

WILLIAMSBURG, JUNE 13.

This day his honour the preſident, with the advice of his Majeſty's council, was pleaſed to iſſue a proclamation, for the meeting of the General Aſſembly on thurſday the 11th of next month; in order that the repreſentatives of the people may have an opportunity, thus early, to take under conſideration the diſtreſsful ſituation of the ſufferers by the late moſt extraordinary freſhes.

BOSTON, JUNE 17.

We are aſſured, that the Houſe of Repreſentatives on friday laſt ordered a ſolemn Proteſt to be entered on their journal, againſt all ſuch doctrines, principles and practices as tended to eſtabliſh miniſterial inſtructions as laws within this province; and particularly againſt the preſent manner of exerciſing the prerogative, in convening and holding the General Court at Harvard college in Cambridge, merely by virtue of inſtructions, as an intolerable grievance, which ought ſpeedily to be redreſſed.

PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 13.

Yeſterday arrived here the ſhip Pennſylvania-Farmer, captain Johnſon, from Ireland, with about 300 paſſengers.

NEW-YORK, JUNE 17.

For the benefit of veſſels coming into, and going to ſea from, the port of New-York—the maſter and wardens of the ſaid port did, laſt week, place a large Can Buoy on the ſouth-weſt ſpit of the eaſt bank, in 18 feet water at low-water, bearing from the Light-Houſe on Sandy-Hook N.W. and by W. half W. and from the bluff of Staten-Iſland, making the Narrows S. half E. Veſſels going down muſt keep in 5 fathom water, till they open the buoy with the point of Sandy-Hook, which will clear them of the ſpit. They find that the firſt of the flood ſets about S.W. and by W. for two hours, and it apt to draw veſſels over upon the weſt bank.

PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 20.

Monday laſt arrived here the ſhip Newry-Packet, captain Charles Robinſon, in 6 weeks from Ireland, with 340 paſſengers, all in good health.

PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 27.

At the laſt meeting of the AMERICAN Philoſophical Society, held in this city, were exhibited ſeveral ſpecimens of FLINT GLASS, viz. decanters, wine and beer glaſſes, tumblers, &c. manufactured by Mr. WILLIAM HENRY STIEGEL, of Lancaſter county, which was judged equal in beauty and quality to the generality of Flint Glaſs imported from England; and entitles the ingenious and public-ſpirited manufacturer to the particular encouragement of this province and country.

LONDON, APRIL 13.

LORD North, in opening the Budget, ſaid, the oppoſition had ſtudiouſly contrived to lead the Houſe into ſuch dilemmas, that they could not be moderate, without being accuſed of timidity; or vigorous, without being charged with oppreſſion. Mr. Burke, in his anſwer, obſerved, "that moſt people, who had been brought into dilemmas, were content to take only one part of the evil alternative; but this miniſtry had managed matters ſo, as to fall into both the evil extremes. They had, with great dexterity, contrived to be at once remiſs and rigorous; but in ſuch a manner, that their moderation ſhould always evidently appear to the world the effect of fear, and their rigour the effect of injuſtice. They ſhewed their ſpirit by impriſoning two members of their own, who, in obedience and deference to their orders, had put themſelves into their power; and they ſhewed their lenity, by ſuffering Mr. Wilkes to eſcape, who had deſpiſed their authority."

He animadverted on their expedient of adjourning over laſt Monday, for the purpoſe of flying from Mr. Wilkes, who had been ordered to attend that day. "They pretend this," ſaid he, "to be out of contempt; but that pretence only diſcovered more fully their dread of him; for, if they deſpiſed him too much to ſee him on the day of their order, why did they make an order for his attendance? Why did they renew the order? Their erazing a day from the calendar might," ſaid he, "be an improvement in aſtronomy, but it made a miſerable figure in politics; ſince ſo ſtrong a meaſure, by which they cut off a day from their buſineſs, without any other reaſon or pretence, declared, in the moſt deciſive manner, to the world, how much they dreaded to have any thing to do with an adverſary, who had given them ſo much trouble."

By expunging that Monday from the Parliamentary Calendar, they rendered it memorable for ever. It will, ſaid he, always hereafter carry the name of Wilkes's Monday. He had before been their Martyr; he was now their Saint. He obſerved, that the fortune of that gentleman was ſingular, and in almoſt all points the leaſt conformable, to what was to be expected from his natural complexion; that the laſt characters he ſhould have expected to have found Mr. Wilkes in, were thoſe of an Alderman and a Saint; but this was a proof, the only remaining proof, of the omnipotence of the Houſe.

On Thurſday Mr. Alderman Wilkes paſſed the evening with fourteen of the Common-council of the ward of Farringdon-Without, at the London Coffee Houſe on Ludgate-hill; only two of the Common-council of that ward were abſent. The gentlemen preſent were unanimous in their wiſhes and intreaties that Mr. Wilkes might be choſen, at Midſummer next, one of the Sheriffs of this city, for the year enſuing, and that he would accept that office. They particularly inſiſted on the neceſſity of a new and complete freeholder's book, and complained greatly of many defects in that now in force. The Alderman declared, that if he had the honour of being choſen Sheriff, he would certainly accept that really important office; and promiſed, that with the advice of the beſt friends of the laws and liberties of this country, he would endeavour to form a new and complete freeholder's book. He afterwards explained, to the entire ſatisfaction of every gentleman preſent, the whole buſineſs of the Middleſex election, and what would probably be his conduct in the event of Col. Luttrell vacating his pretended ſeat, or the diſſolution of the preſent Parliament, &c. &c. &c.

On Friday noon Mr. Wilkes waited on Mr. Alderman Oliver in the Tower, and told him the reſolution he had taken to be Sheriff next year with Mr. Oliver. Mr. Oliver gave him many reaſons why he ought not to attempt it; but he was not able to prevail on Mr. Wilkes to decline.

And at a meeting of the Common-council of the above ward on Friday night, Mr. Wilkes again declared his intention to ſerve the ſaid office. That night a letter from Mr. Oliver was brought by Mr. Lovell, and given to Mr. Wilkes's deputy (Mr. Wilkes being himſelf buſy with the Common council) Mr. Lovell told the deputy, that though the letter was directed to Mr. Wilkes, it was intended to be ſeen by all the gentlemen preſent. Mr. Lovell afterwards told one of the Common-councilmen the purport of the letter; which is ſaid to be as follows: viz. "That Mr. Oliver knowing, from Mr. Wilkes's own declarations, that his political views and intentions were very different from Mr. Oliver's, was for that reaſon, and many other reaſons, determined not to ſerve the office of Sheriff with Mr. Wilkes; and he deſires Mr. Wilkes to ſhew this his letter to the gentlemen of his ward, if Mr. Wilkes was determined to perſevere in his attempt."

The cauſe of ſome gentlemen's diſapprobation of Mr. Wilkes's intention to ſerve the office of Sheriff the enſuing year, is ſaid to be, that ſhould Mr. Luttrell vacate his ſeat when Mr. Wilkes is Sheriff, the county of Middleſex will be betrayed, and the grand queſtion of the right of election left undecided.

APRIL 16.

WHITEHALL, April 12. The King has been pleaſed to appoint Robert, Earl of Holderneſſe, to be Governor; William, Lord Biſhop of Cheſter, Preceptor; Leonard Smelt, Eſq; Sub-Governor; and Cyril Jackſon, A. M. Sub-Preceptor to their Royal Highneſſes George-Auguſtus Frederick, Prince of Wales, and to Prince Frederick, Biſhop of Oſnabrugh.

APRIL 17.

A letter from Spain mentions, that the Governor of Callao is brought priſoner to Madrid; but his crime is yet a ſecret.

A certiorari has removed all the proceedings againſt Whittam, the meſſenger, into the King's-Bench.

APRIL 18.

Yeſterday the old Bill of Rights men, Mr. Wilkes attending at the head of them, waited on the Lord-Mayor in the Tower to elect him one of their ſelect ſociety, when his Lordſhip moſt politely accepted of the honour of becoming one of their members.

Mr. Wilkes has declared his fixed reſolution of ſerving for Sheriff, if put up by the city; and in caſe Mr. Alderman Oliver ſhould decline being his colleague, Mr. Bull will be put up in his ſtead.

Lord Cheſterfield was with Lord Halifax when his Lordſhip received Mr. Alderman Wilkes's letter, reſpecting the diſcharge of John Wheble, apprehended under the King's proclamation. Lord Halifax ſeemed a good deal confuſed, and mentioned a letter from Mr Wilkes. Lord Cheſterfield ſaid that he was in the caſe of poor Eloiſa.

APRIL 19.

It is ſaid, that Mr. Alderman Oliver ſtrongly inclines to accommodate the point of Sheriffalty with Mr. Wilkes, but that he cannot as yet perſuade two or three particular friends, (on whoſe judgment he has a great reliance) to agree to the conceſſion.

The CONTRAST. The meſſenger of the Houſe of Commons was admitted to bail, not committed, for breaking the peace; the two worthy Aldermen were committed, refuſed bail, for preſerving the peace.

APRIL 22.

The Spaniards are fitting out their fleets, all the appearances of war being blown over.

APRIL 23.

Late on Saturday evening a courier arrived from Madrid, with a complete ratification of the convention between England and Spain—with a farther account, that the Court of Verſailles and Madrid have both actually begun to diſarm, and leſſen their naval as well as their military armaments. Great-Britain, it is moſt certain, will follow the like method, inſtantly, agreeable to the example ſet to her by the two other courts, at her ſpecial inſtance and requeſt. Nevertheleſs a reſpectable navy will be ſtill kept in pay.

Yeſterday morning, at half paſt ten, the Right Hon. the Lord-Mayor left the Tower, attended by the proper officers, and paſſed through Tower-ſtreet, to be carried before the Court of Common-Pleas in Weſtminſter-hall, to which place he was followed by a vaſt concourſe of people, amongſt whom were many very reſpectable perſons. Bow bells began to ring at the time his Lordſhip came out of the Tower, and continued ringing till he was out of the city.

After a hearing in the court of Common-Pleas, his Lordſhip was remanded.

When his Lordſhip's coach reached Temple-bar, the populace inſiſted that the officer of the Tower, who attended his Lordſhip, ſhould get out; but, at the Lord-Mayor's earneſt requeſt, he was permitted to go on with him.

The Lord-Mayor remained at the Manſion-houſe late on Monday night, as the populace continued before the houſe, declaring that he ſhould not be carried back to the Tower.

APRIL 24.

Late on Saturday evening a Secretary to the Count de Guigne, the French Ambaſſador at our Court, took French leave of the Count, and at the ſame time having ſeized himſelf of all the papers and documents in the cuſtody of the Count, many of which papers contain ſeveral inſtructions from the Duke de Choiſeul to the Count Guigne, and alſo to his predeceſſor Count Chatelet, marched off with the ſame to Verſailles, in order, as it is apprehended, to find ſufficient materials out of them for the condemnation of the Duke de Choiſeul, whoſe ruin it ſeems is now irretrievably determined on.

There is no truth in the report, that their Majeſties intended ſoon to viſit Portſmouth.

On Wedneſday Mr. Wilkes, attended by a great number of the Bill of Rights men, waited in a body on Dr. Lee, and appointed him their Secretary, in the place of Mr. Boddington.

Mr. Thomas Townſhend declared lately in a certain aſſembly, that to his certain knowledge a conſiderable ſum had been iſſued from the Exchequer lately in bank bills of 1000 l. each, and declared that he believed it had been diſtributed among the members of that Aſſembly, in order to procure a majority in favour of adminiſtration.

APRIL 26.

We are assured that Alderman Wilkes, and Frederick Bull, Esq; will be candidates for the office of Sheriffs for the city of London and county of Middlesex, for the year ensuing; and also Alderman Oliver and Alderman Kirkman.

The Venus frigate, Capt. Balfour, within a few days arrived at Portsmouth, is from Lisbon; where she had lain several days without passing the interior castle, so that she did not properly enter the port, nor had she any known communication with the shore. Her errand thither appeared, therefore, mysterious to every body.

Just before the departure of the last packet from Lisbon, a royal order was sent to the custom house, not to suffer any French woollen manufactures, or even any with a mixture of wool, to be entered, or dispatched on any pretence whatsoever; which had thrown the whole French factory into the utmost consternation. It is supposed the next packet which arrives will inform us of the cause of this procedure.—The truth of this and the preceding paragraph may be entirely relied on.

It is now said, that it is settled that Lord North shall hold the premiership during the recess of Parliament, but that he is to resign before the commencement of the next session. If this adjustment is true, it seems to be meant as a sugar-plumb for his Lordship, to sweeten the mighty quantity of sour he has been obliged to gulp during the present session.

If his Majesty, as supposed, should dissolve the Parliament, there will not, it is imagined, be an inhabitant left in any village within ten miles of the city. He will be accompanied to and from the House amidst the joyful and dutiful acclamations of a million of his loyal subjects.

If ever the liberty of this country is lost, said an eminent writer, it will be by a corrupt House of Commons. Is not this prophecy fulfilling?

There will be a common-hall, called soon after the releasement of the patriotic Aldermen.

A great man in the law, speaking, a few days since, of Mr. Wilkes's general behaviour to a great lady, said, "There is a uniformity of conduct in this man's actions, that would reflect the highest honour on much better principles."

It was remarked, on Tuesday last, that not one of the bench of the Bishops met their brethren, the Clergy, at Sion College: An instance of this kind was never before known.

The Right Hon. the Earl of Holdernesse hath appointed Charles Kloprogge, Esq; to be his private Secretary.

APRIL 27.

On Thursday about five o'clock, Mr. Serjeant Glynn presented to the House of Commons the petition of Mr. Allen, praying for justice against the soldiers for the murder of his son in St. George's-fields, on the 10th of May, 1768. Mr. Serjeant Glynn moved, that the petition might be brought up to the table. Lord North was very strenuous against the motion, and said the soldiers did no more than they were ordered to do, and that it was too late in the session for such an affair to come on: Besides, did they think that a man would surrender himself, who was charged with murder?—Mr. Edmund Burke was very warm on the occasion, and condemned, in very severe terms, the letters sent by the Lords Weymouth and Barrington.—Mr. Charles Fox said, that if ever he should attain the high honours held by those Noblemen, he certainly should, in the like circumstances, take pattern by their letters.—Sir Joseph Mawbey said, he hoped, that if that Honourable Gentleman ever should arrive to such honours, he would retract his words, and take warning by those letters.—Mr. Onslow threw out, that Allen's son was engaged in a riot, and was busy in insulting the soldiers. The petition sets forth, that the son of the petitioner was not in the riot, but that it was another man, who made his escape from the soldiers. After a very long debate, which lasted till eleven o'clock, the question was then put, Whether the petition should be brought up? The House divided, ayes 33, noes 158.

There is nothing so clear as that Madame de Barré is now in her zenith of power at Versailles, and that power even superior to what was ever exercised by the late Madame Pompadour. This lady has rendered the kingdom of France a very signal service, by first laying open many of the absurd plans of the late minister Choiseul, not one of which, as Madame de Barré prophesied above a twelvemonth ago, has succeeded. The King, charmed as much with the political abilities, as with the personal beauties of this fair Hibernian, has at last, agreeable to her request, entirely new modelled his cabinet, of which the following arrangement is a faithful description.

1. The Duc d'Aiguillon succeeds to the department of foreign affairs, in the place of the Duke of Choiseul.

2. Monsieur de Boyne is appointed to the marine department, in the place of the Duke de Praslin, who is dead of chagrin.

3. Monsieur de Foulon is made Comptroller-General, in the place of the Abbot Terrai.

4. The Duke de Lavoyne is made Superintendant of the Posts and Relays.

5. The Marshal Duke de Broglio is in nomination for the war department.

On Tuesday his Majesty advanced the pay of the private men, belonging to the three regiments of foot guards, fifteen shillings and two-pence half-penny, in consideration of the present enhanced price of the necessaries of life.

APRIL 29.

On Friday Mr. Sawbridge made a motion, for leave to bring in a bill to shorten the duration of Parliaments. He shewed, that this branch of the constitution had been established by our Saxon ancestors, at which time they had only been annual; that they were set aside for 140 years by the Normans: That they on their arrival had continued of short duration (mostly annual) till the reign of Henry VIII. whose tyranny was never complete till established by the long Parliament: That the next long Parliament was that, commonly so called, in 1641, who, by establishing their form of sitting, had brought the greatest destruction on the constitution. The Pensionary Parliament in the reign of Charles II. was also productive of bad consequences to the constitution; to remedy which the triennial bill was passed, restraining them to sit more than three years duration. This was overturned by that breach into the constitution in George the first's reign, the voting themselves septennial, and passing the septennial bill. Though perhaps the particular necessities of the times might render such an act at that day necessary (a rebellion just crushed, and a Pretender to the Throne making it highly improper to call the people together at that time) yet that necessity was now at an end, none of those dangers now hanging over us. That the length of Parliaments gave up that power which the constituents ought to have over their representatives; that of frequent examination into their conduct, and rejection of them if they thought them unworthy. That long Parliaments gave opportunity to such an intimacy between the Ministers and the Members, always dangerous and destructive to the constitution: That in shortening the duration of Parliament he should incline to annual, as subject to fewer objections, in his opinion, than triennial, but that must be the subject of future debates.

Messrs. Alderman Townsend, Dempster, Turner, Barré, &c. &c. supported this measure: They frequently called on administration to shew any reasons why a bill should not be brought in: But, to the amazement of most Members, not one word was offered by administration: The most contemptuous silence was observed. On this great national question, the short appeal was to numbers; and the only declared reasons were 105 to 54.

On Friday afternoon Mr. Cornewall moved in the House of Commons, that if any member of that Assembly had subscribed for more than 20 tickets of the present year's ensuing Lottery, the monies depositedor advanced upon such tickets should be forfeited. A debate followed upon this motion, and was succeeded by a division, in which the numbers were, for the motion 33; against it 188.

MAY 1.

Monday evening the House of Commons put off the Stock-jobbing bill sine die.

The Commons at the same time adjourned till Monday next, having finished the whole business of the Session, except that of prorogation.

Alexander Murray, Esq; who was self-banished some years since, for a contempt of the House of Commons, has been lately recalled from his exile by the King's privy seal.

In consequence of the last dispatches from Madrid, our Court have actually paid off forty King's ships.

By taking off the deduction for poundage from the pay of the private men of the regiments of foot, and the stoppage for pay-master and surgeon from non commission officers and private men, a serjeant now receives eight shillings and eight-pence, a corporal and drummer six shillings and six-pence, and a private centinel sixteen shillings and six-pence yearly more than before.

MAY 2.

On Tuesday, in the House of Commons, Mr. Richard Whitworth made a motion, which was seconded by Sir Robert Clayton, to THANK the Select Committee of twenty-one, for their enquiries into the causes of the late orders of the House being disobeyed. The ministry seeing the ludicrous intent of the motion, Lord North moved for the House to adjourn; and, after a short debate, they adjourned accordingly till Monday next.

MAY 3.

The following piece of information may be depended on. The other day the French King found, under a plate that was set for him at dinner, a scroll of paper, on which was written, "The first Damien missed his aim, the second will be more sure." The King was a little alarmed upon the first perusal of it, but had presence of mind enough to hide his confusion from the observation of the people that were around him. However, as soon as dinner was over he sent for the Chancellor and Great Officers of State, and informed them of the event.

We hear that a new invention in the silk manufacture has been laid before the Society of Arts, Manufactures, and Commerce. It is a manner of weaving an imitation of black lace, laid upon any coloured silk or sattin, in any pattern desired. It produced the effect so certainly, that it is impossible, without a very close examination, to distinguish it from the reality.

MAY 4.

The news of the intended motion of the Earl of Chatham, for an address to the King to dissolve the Parliament, though there can be little hopes of his Lordship's success in the attempt, nevertheless threw the Ministry into a greater bustle and consternation than any preceding movements during the whole Session.

The people in most parts of France suffer the greatest distress from the high price of provision, the coarsest bread being sold at three-pence per pound. They pray for war, willing rather to die by the sword, than consume with famine.
